

MORNING APPEAL

FRIDAY.....JULY 7

L. P. Fisher, newspapers advertising agents, 21 Merchants' Exchange, San Francisco, is our authorized agent. This paper is kept on file in his office.

REPORTERS AND LAWYERS.

Mr. Stillwell the reporter who worked up the McWhirter case for the Examiner is having an interesting tilt with W. W. Foot the attorney who has been hired to save Heath's neck.

Foot's idea of defending his client is simply to throw mud at the witnesses for the prosecution.

He denounced Stillwell as a private detective masquerading as a newspaper reporter. Foot's idea of a detective appears to be a man who would go about with a large card pinned to his clothes inscribed:

"I am a detective and my name is Jones." Stillwell was obliged to submit to a vast amount of insulting insinuating and bullying from the attorney, which he took very coolly, as reporters are quite used to the methods employed by attorneys in such cases.

To read the proceedings one would think the witnesses and not the supposed murderer was on trial. A reporter who, in the interest of justice runs to cover and unearths crime, is regarded by the legal profession, as something too vile to describe, but a lawyer who saves thieves and criminals from jail is a beautiful thing to contemplate. It won't do for the legal fraternity to throw slurs on the newspaper profession.

The attorneys belong to a gang who rob widows' estates, who save red handed murderers from the gallows for coin, and who engage in all sorts of low, contemptible and dirty work for money, yet strut about the town as if they were supreme beings. If the press of San Francisco would begin to do some detective work on the records of the attorneys, about half of them would leave town.

The journalist unearths and exposes crime, the lawyer covers it up and festers it as an industry of which he thrives and fattens. While the journalist is poor compared to the highly fed attorney of big cities, his calling is infinitely more respectable. There is as much difference as between the astronomer who explores the heavens and the pal of the thief who watches at the corner and whistles when the police are in sight.

Boycott the Goldbug Papers.

The writer for years has been subscribing for, taking and paying for numerous illustrated papers of the East, notably for instance, Harper's Weekly, Frank Leslie's Illustrated, Puck, Illustrated American, Judge and Life, not to say others, all of which for the past two years have been vindictively and maliciously blackguarding silver and its friends. I am sick, tired and weary of it and I propose to take up the gauntlet and cry a halt. We of the West in a measure dependent on the East have been forced to submit to this abuse, but the present state of affairs indicate that it is time to stop. We must no longer bow the knee and cringe and lick the hand that smites us. So here goes. I stop such papers at once. Who'll follow?

SILVER,

Yesterday, in this city, as elsewhere, houses were burned, stores wrecked, windows were smashed, men and children were cut and burned, horses were frightened and drivers and vehicles damaged, women's dresses were destroyed, sick persons were subjected to much suffering, the municipality was put to much expense, and all for what? Now, if patriotism cannot be better demonstrated than by the discharge of fireworks, does it not seem that the fireworks should be discharged where they can do no harm, and put money into the pockets of American artisans rather than those of aliens, and such aliens as Chinese?—Daily Report.

Charley Fox, a well-known half-witted young man of Dayton, ran away from home a month ago. He has just been heard from in Chicago, where he is taking in the World's Fair.—Dayton Times.

He has been in Reno all the while but the Reno people have persuaded him that he is in Chicago.

The weather is simply delightful.
